5. Content moderation engaged in at Viator's own initiative; use of automated means.

Viator uses advanced screening technology to provide sophisticated analysis of content contributed by our users (both suppliers and travelers). Notably, every review submitted to the Viator platform is analyzed using a proprietary technology system aimed at detecting violations of our policies.

Viator leverages a layered approach to content moderation, including human moderators. When screening technology can neither entirely reject nor clear a review to be posted, our team of experts assesses the submission through a process to determine whether content meets our content guidelines. This team of expert moderators around the world undergo intensive training periods focused on policies, processes and trends specific to our platform. This approach to training includes a mix of foundational knowledge, hands-on practice, and continuous learning. We rely on this team's expertise to help analyze and address the more concerning content appearing on our platform.

The Viator community - both operators and travelers - is encouraged to use our content flagging system to help identify and support Viator's review of content potentially violating policies.
